training

and supporting broadcasters

The Access Manawatu training programme

We offer a 2 hour introductory course aimed at familiarising people with;

The Station

The guided tour and an introduction to staff.

Equipment

Demonstrating the most commonly used equipment in the studios in order to gain an understanding of the process of making radio.

Laws & Regulations

A short presentation and Q & A on the laws and regulations surrounding broadcasting - in particular the BSA Code of Broadcasting Practice.

Programme Planning

How to effectively manage your time on air, say what you want to say, and ensure you are educating, informing and entertaining.

Workshops

Access Manawatu offers regular workshops tackling specific areas. Common themes are generally equipment training, announcing tips and programme structure.

We advertise these workshops in advance and regularly invite experts from outside the organisation to present.

One – on – one training

Many people benefit from dedicated one - on - one time, and we recognise that.

Our staff are available to provide this style of training occasionally. If you feel that this would suit you, please contact a staff member.

Regular screening

Our staff listen to your programme regularly and ensure that it is achieving it's fullest potential. We will occasionally critique your programme too, outlining areas for improvement, as well as things you are doing well!

On-going support

Programme-Makers are never left alone. There is support on hand, whenever you need it, carefully ensuring we maintain a standard of broadcast whilst not stifling your freedom of expression.
